

Using our sense of touch to explore lots of different textures this week. We painted with different body parts using our hands, arms and feet. We let the cornflakes and cereal fall through our fingers and we also discussed the difference when we scrunched and squeezed it into little pieces.

Making dough is such a good exercise for strengthening our fingers and will help in preparing them to hold our pens and pencils correctly

