

Investigating and experimenting with propulsion. We use a balloon to make our rocket travel along the line. It also took off from the pump as we added more and more air eventually zooming around the room. We made some paper cone rockets too where we placed them on the end of a straw and used our breath to send them into orbit.